About our Founder/ CEO

Jaryd Boyer

Jaryd Boyer's passion for family, boxing, youth development, and faith led him to launch Premier Fight Club in 2015.

His boxing journey began at an early age under the guidance of his father, Joseph Boyer and other mentors. With very little (to no) stability and consistency from as far as he can recall, They taught him values in a unique circumstance, using boxing as an outlet and escape from day to day struggles. His relationship with his mentors and boxing played a key role in what he is doing to this day.

The work ethic, discipline, and values he learned through his father and boxing kept him, "out of the way just enough." Now he is attempting to make sure the future generations have a place of hope on a bigger level than boxing.

A new dream was sparked as he felt called to open his own training facility where he could use fitness to help uplift the community and serve God.

From a Dream to Reality

In 2015, as Jaryd envisioned his own training facility, his longtime trainer and mentor, Marty Corak, offered him the chance to take over the Beaver County Boxing Club space located in Rochester. Jaryd was on his way to sign a contract that he verbally committed to in East Liverpool, Ohio at that very same instant.

Jaryd worked tirelessly to renovate the space for training and quickly identified the need for a positive environment for, "all ages and abilities" in the community. He partially credits boxing as the life experience he needed to teach him perseverance and poise that helped him bring this opportunity to fruition, with minimal resources. Hope is what was needed to start that boxing gym, now a full community center, and remains the core of Jaryd's vision and values.

Over the next four years, his team of trainers, trainees, supporters, and volunteer leaders came together. In fall of 2018, when faced with another unforeseen relocation circumstance (3 in 2018) and things seemed hopeless, the opportunity came to take over a fully functional facility in the Hopewell Shopping Center, the Premier family was ready.

Through sacrifice, integrity, and donations the new facility is now in a great position to serve. Equipped with exercises machines, a boxing ring, fitness equipment, recreational games, and more the Premier dream has come true. Premier is opening the door to a world of hope and possibilities for individuals, families, the whole of the Beaver County community, and abroad.

Our Model

Premier offers paid memberships through its Pound for Pound for-profit programming and donates membership proceeds to help fund the center's nonprofit fitness training and recreation center programming.

In doing so, the valuable programs offered through Premier's nonprofit arm can be offered at little to no cost to those who need it most, yet have the least financial resources. This model is conducive to creating a path of sustainability.

Funding

Premier's nonprofit programming relies on funds from Pound for Pound, the support and generosity of donors and sponsors, and grant funding from foundations and government agencies.
